

CV: Miloš Brunclík, Ph.D.

Workplace address: Institute of Political Studies; Faculty of Social Sciences; Charles University. U Krize 8 Praha 5 Jinonice – 158 00 CZECH REPUBLIC

E-mail: milos.brunclik@fsv.cuni.cz

Professional experience:

- | | |
|----------------|--|
| Since 2/2013 | Faculty of Social Sciences: political science research and teaching Czech and English political science courses |
| Since 9/2007 | CEVRO Institute: teaching Czech and English political science courses |
| 2/2010-12/2013 | The Institute for Language and Preparatory Studies, Charles University: teaching courses called „Capitalism and Communism” for US students in the program International Studies Abroad |
| Since 5/2016 | Editor-in-Chief: Acta Politologica (a peer-reviewed political science journal issued by the Institute of Political Studies; Faculty of Social Sciences; Charles University) |

Foreign experience:

- | | |
|-----------------|--|
| 11/2016 | guest lecturer at Ludwig-Maxmillian University in Munich, Germany. |
| 9/2006-12/2006 | Ph.D. study at University Umeå in Sweden (scholarship by the Swedish Institute) |
| 8/2003 – 4/2004 | study of political science at the University of Lund in Sweden (program Erasmus) |

Publications (selection):

1. Brunclík, Miloš. 2016. Three technocratic cabinets in the Czech Republic: a symptom of party failure? Politics in Central Europe 12(2): 7-28. DOI: 10.1515/pce-2016-0010.
2. Kubát, Michal, and Miloš Brunclík. 2016. Czech Parliamentary Regime After 1989: Origins, Developments and Challenges. Acta Politologica, Vol. 8, No. 2, 5-29.

3. Brunclík, Miloš and Michal Kubát. 2016. Contradictory Approaches: Discussing Semi-Presidentialism in Central Europe. Analele Universitatii Bucuresti. Seria Stiinte Politice 18 (1): 67-79.
4. Brunclík, Miloš. 2016. Presidential Cabinet: A Symptom of a Crisis of Parliamentary Regime“ In: Říchová, Blanka; Kubicki, Radosław; Walter, Aaron (eds.). Rethinking the Presidency: Challenges and Failures, 117-134. Trnava: University of Ss. Cyril and Methodius in Trnava.
5. Brunclík, Miloš. 2015. The Rise of Technocratic Cabinets – What We Know, and What We Should Like to Know. Austrian Journal of Political Science 44(3): 1-11. DOI 10.15203/ozp.975.vol44iss30.
6. Brunclík, Miloš, Novák, Miroslav a kol. 2014. Internetové volby: Budoucnost, nebo slepá ulička demokracie? Praha: SLON.
7. Kubát, Michal and Miloš Brunclík. 2014. Crisis of the Czech Politics 25 Years after the Velvet Revolution. Politeja-Pismo Wydziału Studiów Międzynarodowych i Politycznych Uniwersytetu Jagiellońskiego 28: 163-179.
8. Brunclík, Miloš. 2013. Problem of Early Elections and Dissolution Power in the Czech Republic. Communist and Post-Communist Studies 46 (2): 217-226.
9. Brunclík, Miloš. 2012. Konstruktivní vyslovení nedůvěry jako nástroj k posílení pozice vlády vůči parlamentu. Středoevropské politické studie 14 (4): 501-527.
10. Brunclík, Miloš, Havlík, Vlastimil and Pinková, Aneta. 2011. Skandinávie: proměny severské politiky. Praha: Wolters Kluwer ČR.
11. Brunclík, Miloš. 2011. Příčiny vzestupu radikální populistické pravice ve Švédsku. Politologický časopis 18 (2): 111-132.
12. Brunclík, Miloš. 2010. Pirátské strany: nový fenomén v politice. Naše společnost 8 (1): 21-29.
13. Brunclík, Miloš. 2009. Negativní parlamentarismus: cesta k efektivnějšímu fungování parlamentního režimu? Acta Politologica 1(2): 118-141.
14. Novák, Miroslav, Miloš Brunclík (eds.). 2008. Postavení hlavy státu v parlamentních a poloprezidentských režimech - Česká republika v komparativní perspektivě. Praha: Dokořán.